

Niger, 2006

In November 2006 Chris Coyne joined the Turtle Will medical mission to Niger in West Africa. For two weeks, the Turtle Will team of local physicians and nurses and international volunteers treated over 2,500 adults and children of the nomadic Tuareg and Wadaabe tribes. During the trip the Coyne Foundation pledged improvements to the primary school in Tezerzait, Niger. For a video reflection of Chris Coyne's experience among the nomads, follow the link to YouTube.
